The Fifth String John Philip Sousa,2004-06 He sat looking into the fire. The violin had brought back memories of the past and its dead. He mumbled, as if to the fire, she loved me; she loved my violin. I was a devil; my violin was a devil, " and the shadows on the wall swayed like accusing spirits. He buried his face in his hands and cried piteously, I was so young; too young to know." He spoke as if he would conciliate the ghastly shades that moved restlessly up and down, when suddenly -- Sanders, don't be a fool '

String in the Harp Nancy Bond,1996 In his award-winning book The Philosophy of Edmund Husserl: A Historical Development, J. N. Mohanty charted Husserl's philosophical development from the young man's earliest studies—informed by his work as a mathematician—to the publication of his Ideas in 1913. In this welcome new volume, the author takes up the final decades of Husserl's life, addressing the work of his Freiburg period, from 1916 until his death in 1938. As in his earlier work, Mohanty here offers close readings of Husserl's main texts accompanied by accurate summaries, informative commentaries, and original analyses. This book, along with its companion volume, completes the most up-to-date, well-informed, and comprehensive account ever written on Husserl's phenomenological philosophy and its development.
